During the annual “Week of Italian Cuisine in the World 2020,” a series of events are planned at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. This year’s edition at UW-Madison is dedicated to Italian food writer Pellegrino Artusi since 2020 marks the Bicentennial of the birth of Pellegrino Artusi, author of Science in the Kitchen and the Art of Eating Well (1891) and “father” of Italian cuisine. At UW-Madison, Artusi figures prominently in our courses and academic activities, and the UW Library features several important editions of his book in its Special Collections. For a special video, Casa Artusi a Forlimpopoli about Pellegrino Artusi and Casa Artusi in Forlimpopoli (Italy) click here: Casa Artusi Video.

Prof. Andrea Segrè (University of Bologna)

"The Italian Way: Mediterranean Diet vs Food Waste"

Welcoming remarks and special toast to Pellegrino Artusi by Dr. Thomas Botzios (Consul General of Italy), Dr. Luca Di Vito (Director of the Italian Cultural Institute in Chicago), Dr. Laila Tentoni (President of Casa Artusi in Forlimpopoli, Italy), and Prof. Grazia Menechella (University of Wisconsin-Madison).

Tuesday, November 17, 2020

1:15 pm – 2:15 pm US Central time

Online Public lecture in English
The event is free and open to all

Link to the lecture via Zoom will be available on the Facebook page: Italian at UW-Madison

The “Week of Italian Cuisine in the World 2020,” with events organized worldwide, stresses the health benefits of the Mediterranean diet during the pandemic. In his lecture, Prof. Segrè will stress the characteristics of the Mediterranean diet as a model for a sustainable lifestyle following his motto “think locally, act globally” -- a motto in which he stresses the link between collective and personal actions and how they impact our world.

For more information, contact Prof. Grazia Menechella gmeneche@wisc.edu or visit https://europe.wisc.edu/event/andrea-segre-title-tba/ https://www.facebook.com/ItalianatUWMadison/